

GP services may be put under one roof

ANNA SAVVA
@AnnaSavvaCN

A HAVERHILL GP practice will close one of its buildings as part of restructuring plans by the Suffolk GP Federation. Christmas Maltings and Clements Practice is applying to NHS England and the West Suffolk Clinical Commissioning Group to move all existing services from the Christmas Maltings building in Camps Road to the Clements Surgery in Greenfields Way.

The move is expected to happen within the next six months following a formal approval process, including gaining patient feedback.

Dr Nick Rayner, executive director of Suffolk GP Federation, said: "We will continue to provide exactly the same services as before.

"Consolidating to just two sites in Clements and Kedington would allow us to focus the resources that we have – and help us to partly address the ongoing difficulties with recruiting new staff. This is particularly true for doctors. As a result, our services would be safer because we would have more clinical cover. It will also make the practice less complicated to run, which will ultimately make it more sustainable, allowing us to spend more time treating patients and concentrating on providing the best possible care.

"There is enough space at Clements if we use existing rooms more efficiently and also convert some rooms currently used for administrative purposes into other clinical uses."

Dr Rayner said that in partnership with other healthcare providers they would be exploring alternative uses for the vacated space at Christmas Maltings.

"We understand that patients may have a lot of questions and we would encourage them to contact us," he added. "We will continue to keep everyone up to date with how our plans are progressing including starting a formal process to get feedback. We will soon be publishing our latest patient newsletter, available from reception, the surgery website or its new Facebook page."

The announcement comes after the struggling surgery was taken over by the GP federation earlier this month after its services were suffering under staff shortages.

UNDER ONE ROOF: Existing services at the Christmas Maltings building could move to the Clements Surgery

There were only three doctors at the practice at the time it was taken over, leading to above average waiting times for patients.

The plan to close the Camps Road building comes after the GP surgery opened its doors for a round of public consultation on June 6.

FLYING THE FLAG: Armed Forces Day celebrated in Haverhill last year

Special day for armed forces

THE spirit of the Blitz will live on in Haverhill as it celebrates servicemen and women past and present during its second Armed Forces Day.

A chance to show your support for the Armed Forces community, from serving troops to service families, veterans and cadets, the day will include marching bands, music, military vehicles, exhibitions and more, with a 1940's theme running throughout.

The event kicks off at 11am this Saturday with a selection of military vehicles on display on the Market Square, along with stalls run by the Haverhill Army cadets, the Royal British Legion and others.

Charmian Thompson, secretary of the Haverhill Family History Group, said they would have a display about how Haverhill supported the forces during the First and Second World Wars.

@tommylumbyCN

"There will also be a tent with some activities for children all about code-breaking," she said.

At 11.45am, the Bury St Edmunds Sea Cadet Band will lead a parade through the High Street, arriving at the Market Square at midday where three flags will be raised, one for each branch of the military.

A vintage singing group will perform 1940's big band hits while the Haverhill Sequence Dance Club will also strut their stuff.

Nick Keeble, arts and leisure manager at Haverhill Town Council, said: "It's the second time we have run the event and it was successful last year.

"Next year is going to be the 100th anniversary of the end of the First World War, so it seemed suitable to have a Second World War-themed event this year."

In keeping with the period, Haverhill Arts Centre is staging a performance of The Vera Lynn Story, about the life of the famous wartime singer, at 5pm.

Running alongside the Armed Forces Day is the St Mary's Church Summer Fete, which starts at 10am and includes children's activities, a performance by the Haverhill Choral Society and a stall selling cake and refreshments.

Andrew Payne, minister at St Mary's Church, said: "We would like people to come along and recognise the work of our armed forces. Come down, have a good time and give them some support."

CHARITY

BROTHERS: Joshua (top) with older brothers Ryan (middle) and Greg

Family calling for townsfolk to 'Walk With Us'

SAMAQR MAGUIRE
@SamarMaguireCN

THE family of a brave 16-year-old who died from cancer will host a charity walk this weekend in a bid to help other children with brain tumours.

The Joshua Tarrant Trust, founded by the family of Joshua Tarrant, is inviting people to take part in their Walk With Us event in East Town Park, Haverhill.

The 2.5km or 5km walk, which will include a barbecue and a raffle, will take place from 10am on Sunday, June 25.

Denise Tarrant, Joshua's mum, said: "We wanted to involve the local community and families.

"I am really looking forward to it, especially with the weather being as it is.

"We're passionate about rehabilitation, and that's where the funds will go."

The charity launched when Joshua died after battling cancer for half his life, being diagnosed with three brain tumours at the age of just 8.

In his memory, Denise, dad Sean and older brothers Ryan, Lee and Greg set up the trust and have raised more than £33,000 in the past five years.

Their fundraising and charity work has become their new version of 'normal' and helped turn something tragic into a positive.

Denise said: "The charity helps us to continue to keep Joshua as part of our everyday lives.

"It has turned something devastatingly tragic into something positive for us as a family and other children suffering with brain tumours.

"The constant support of our family and friends who want to remember Joshua with us is heart-warming and pushes us on every day to make a difference. Joshua is our inspiration."

The money raised by the trust is specifically used to help other children with brain tumours have fulfilling lives, as well as help fight the disease.

For more information about the trust and to register for the walk, visit <http://www.joshuatarrant-trust.org.uk/2-5k-or-5k-walk-registration/>

Town to host third beer and music festival

PREPARE to hold up your glasses because the beer will soon be flowing as Haverhill celebrates its third beer and music festival.

The town's Market Square will once again play host to the annual event, where punters can enjoy live music, food from around the world, craft stalls, and most importantly, an wide array of beers and ciders.

It will take place from 11am to 9pm on Saturday, July 1, and from noon until 5pm on Sunday, July 2.

The festival bar will be serving a selection of nine traditional ales, including an 'Old Rodney' from Brandon Brewery and an amber 'Tunnel Vision' from Wiltshire-based Box Steam Brewery.

For the internationally-minded, there will be five craft 'lager beers', from as far afield as Sweden, Spain and the USA, and seven different ciders also will be on offer.

A live music stage will see local talent entertaining the crowds, along with previous performers Soul Solution on the Saturday evening, and solo singer-songwriter Pembroke Tenneson on the Sunday.

The festival has been organised by St Edmundsbury Borough Council and the Market Square Group.

Cllr Alaric Pugh, cabinet member for planning and growth, said: "This is only the third year of the festival but it is already very popular and we have had lots of positive feedback. We want families to come along, shop in the town and on the market, and then relax, have a delicious drink, tuck into some tasty food and enjoy the live music."

Honour to be your MP

IT was an honour to be re-elected as MP for West Suffolk. I am incredibly grateful to my team, to supporters across the constituency, and all those who voted for me, for putting their trust in me once again, with an increased majority and a higher share of the vote.

It is a huge honour and a duty to represent you in Parliament, and a duty I take very seriously. Once the votes are counted, it doesn't matter how people voted. An MP is there to represent all of their constituents, and I am here for all my constituents. I have thoroughly enjoyed the past seven years representing West Suffolk and feel incredibly fortunate to be able to continue to be your voice in Parliament.

During the election campaign, I was able to meet so many of the residents of West Suffolk, whether on their doorstep or out on the High Street. Although in the digital age there are lots of different platforms for connecting with voters, seeing people face to face remains the best way to hear what people's hopes and concerns are for themselves and for their communities.

There were a number of issues that came up, both local and national in nature, and I will do my utmost best to address them in this new Parliament.

With a new Parliament, we have a duty to provide the stable government that the country needs so badly right now. In recent weeks, our country has been shocked by several terrorist incidents and man-made disasters. But how we choose to deal with these very difficult issues can best be done by a government that puts people's safety and security front and centre.

We also need to make sure we get started on the Brexit talks with the EU, in order to achieve the best deal for Britain. We have got to get these negotiations right, and this is probably the biggest issue that our country has faced in decades. I voted to remain in the European Union, but I am dedicated to fulfilling the wish of the of the people, who voted to leave the EU - and keeping Britain the dynamic, fair and economically strong country that it must continue to be.

A big part of serving you is listening to you. So on any matter, large or small, please do not hesitate to contact me if there is an issue you think I can be of help with or where you want me to know your views. I look forward to hearing from you. Please get in touch at either matthew.hancock.mp@parliament.uk or in writing to the House of Commons, London SW1A 0AA.

Keep your dog safe

A YEAR ago, June 16, was one of the toughest days I've had as an RSPCA inspector.

I've been with the RSPCA for almost 20 years and some of the things I've seen during that time have made me angry while others have broken my heart.

On June 16, 2016, my heart broke not only for three dogs who lost their lives, but also for their owner.

It was overcast that day and between 16-19C. Three dogs were left in a car while their owner went into the gym in Peterborough. By the time I was called to the scene by police, all three dogs had perished. A heart-breaking illustration of why our message every summer is simple: Dogs Die in Hot Cars.

No one leaves their dogs in a car to die on purpose. They believe their dog will be fine for 'just a few minutes'.

They leave their pets because it's convenient, while they pop into the shop to pick up milk or to go for a quick bite to eat at the pub. And when they return to find a police officer or RSPCA inspector waiting for them, their response is usually along the lines of: "I was only five minutes." But in reality not long is too long.

Sometimes they might apologise and listen to our advice. But many, who believe their pets are fine, insist that onlookers who reported them are overreacting. Then, they get into their car and, without exception, drive off with their windows down. It's too hot for them inside their car - where temperatures, within an hour, can soar to 47C - but they think their dog, in its thick fur coat, will be fine. It's baffling.

So, in my desperate attempts to stop any more pets from suffering this horrendous fate - and any more owners having their beloved pet's death on their conscience - I'm pleading with owners this summer: please never leave your dog in the car. Leave them at home where they will be safe and cool. And where they will survive.

Justin Stubbs
RSPCA inspector

BOROUGH COUNCIL

Repair work to save town's Corn Exchange completed

RACHAEL MCMENEMY
@rach_mc94CN

EMERGENCY measures to save Haverhill's crumbling Corn Exchange from falling into further disrepair have been completed.

A legal notice was served by St Edmundsbury Borough Council on the building's owner back in May detailing a list of repairs that had to be carried out.

The urgent works notice gave the owner seven days to carry out the work before the borough took over and completed the work itself.

Extensive repairs and other work carried out have now been revealed by the council.

Work included:
■ Boarding over all seven windows on the north-west elevation (to car park road side), one upper window on the north-east (front) elevation, one window on the south-west (rear) elevation and one small kitchen window at the right-hand end on the south-east (Rose and Crown garden) elevation.

■ Cutting back vegetation growing from the brickwork and injecting poison into the stumps.

■ Cleaning out gutters, hoppers and downpipes and cutting back ivy growth to those areas that affect the water flow to rainwater outlets, to leave it free-flowing.

■ Checking all gutters and downpipes and repairing joints where required.

The owner is currently trying to sell the Corn Exchange and Haverhill Town Council is one of the bidders.

The building, which lies within the town's conservation area on Withersfield Road, has been on the market for several years.

It has been derelict for a decade since it was put up for sale by the St Felix Roman Catholic Church.

St Edmundsbury Borough Council confirmed that it will recover repair costs after the building is sold.

Prior to the work being done, Christine Leveson, principal conservation officer at St Edmundsbury Borough Council, said: "This building is an important part of the history of Haverhill and a well-known local landmark."

"Unfortunately, the sale of the building has been very slow and meanwhile the building is continuing to suffer."

"The council is therefore preparing to use its powers to get the building weather-tight and secure until such time as it is sold."

In November last year vandals broke into the building, damaging the building's doors.

PETS

Can you help sanctuary pets discover their forever home?

JAYBETH Animal Sanctuary has been inundated with offers of help and kind donations of food, blankets and money over the past week.

A Just Giving page, set up by animal lover Sheena Hester has raised more than £1,000 but founder Carol Harris says the one thing still missing is homes for some of the sanctuary's much loved pooches.

Arris, Archie and Noodles have been at the sanctuary collectively for over six years and the fun-loving pets are desperate to find their 'fur'-ever home.

In a Blind Date-esque manner, let's meet the contestants.

Arris' story

Arris is a little whippet cross who's been at Jaybeth for nearly a year now.

Before Carol took him in, Arris had had a terrible few years, he was left outside all year round, tied up and left to starve unless he caught his own food.

Arris needed to be re-homed when his elderly owner went into sheltered accommodation but his new owners tormented him, leaving him out in the cold to fend for himself. His traumatic experience has left him deaf after an ear infection went untreated.

RACHAEL McMENEMY
@rach_mc94CN

After being rescued from his abject misery in the dismal garden of his former owners, Arris was in a dog pound run by Forest Heath council, where he recovered.

When the Mildenhall dog pound shut Arris made his way to Jaybeth.

What you need to know

Arris is a friendly guy but is no good with other animals so would need to be the king of the home as the only pet.

Although he's a tad older, at 12, Arris likes to keep active and loves to go on long walks. They don't necessarily need to be in the moonlight.

He's a fan of sausages, so a butcher looking to keep fit would be a great match.

Archie's story

Archie the great Dane just wants to be loved.

Like many of the animals Carol takes in, Archie had a bit of a rough start in life.

When he arrived at Jaybeth he was full of worms, literally, and it's taken a lot of love and care to get him to put on weight.

Carol says he was "moved from pillar to post" before finally finding the sanctuary.

Archie is also blind in his left eye due to the neglect he suffered but that doesn't stop him having a good time.

What you need to know

A bit of a lad, Archie is quite the colourful character.

Described by those who love him as "a clumsy fool but so sweet", Archie needs somewhere with room to stretch out his paws.

He loves anyone and everyone including other animals and children.

At four years old he's still a youngster and loves to run around or go for a walk.

Let's just say Archie also has a healthy appetite so anyone that falls for this guy will need to have the cash to keep him well fed and be able to go home regularly to feed him.

Noodles' story

Noodles is the longest-stay resident of Jaybeth out of our three lovely pooches, having been there for five years.

Carol quite literally stumbled across this seven-year-old bundle of energy.

Carol said: "Noodles was in a car in front with two women. When we got to Kedington crossroads, as we went left the dog was thrown out of the car. We saw it all.

"He landed on the back of his neck and nearly got killed.

"I hopped out of the car. I tried to catch him and he then came straight to me. His neck has been damaged."

As a consequence of his horrific injury, sometimes Noodles has a tendency to hop on one leg because of damage to his spine.

He's never lived in a domestic environment as far as Carol can tell but she believes he will adapt.

Carol said: "He really deserves a lot better than this."

What you need to know

Noodles will love you unconditionally despite all the heartbreak in his life.

He will especially love your bed, his current housemate suggests you may want to keep him downstairs, only to save your bedding.

And apparently he's got a great sense of humour.

Buddy's story

It's thanks to Buddy that everyone has rallied around to support Jaybeth, his condition spurred Sheena Hester to begin crowd-funding in the first place.

Buddy's owner died and those who were left in charge of him tried to get him put down.

Luckily both vets that were approached in Haverhill refused and contacted Carol to help him.

Buddy needs investigative X-rays and a possible biopsy for a lump on his sternum but the sanctuary were worried about covering the cost of his treatment.

Now Buddy is much happier and may soon need a new home.

■ If you are interested in any of these handsome males then ring Jaybeth Animal Sanctuary on 07871651137 or visit the sanctuary based at Haverhill Road, Barnardiston, Haverhill CB9 7TF

CRIME

County police force failing to record 7,000 crimes each year

JOSH THOMAS
@JoshThomasCN

CONCERNS have been raised after it emerged Cambridgeshire Constabulary fails to record an estimated 7,000 reported crimes each year – including some sexual offences against children.

Her Majesty's Inspectorate of Constabulary (HMIC) has revealed that, while improvements have been made, the force "requires improvement", noting the constabulary is currently under-recording sexual offences (excluding rape) and violence crimes.

According to the 2017 Crime Data Integrity inspection report: "Cambridgeshire Constabulary has made concerted efforts to improve crime-recording accuracy since HMIC's 2014 Crime Data Integrity inspection report. The majority of officers and staff have made progress in placing the victim at the forefront of their crime-recording decisions.

"Work remains to be done, however. Despite advances, based on the findings of our examination of crime reports for the period March 1, 2016, to August 31, 2016, we estimate that the force fails to record over 7,000 reported crimes each year"

Acting Chief Constable (ACC) Dan Vajzovic said: "As HMIC has recognised, we have made a concerted effort to improve the way we record crime accurately since their Crime Data Integrity inspection in 2014, and we continue to put the victims at the heart of our crime recording decisions.

"We have made significant progress against all of the recommendations made in the 2014 report, including introducing new crime-recording processes and establishing the Victim and Witness Hub, which provides support services to all victims of crime – but particularly those who are most vulnerable in our community.

"That said, we recognise there is still more work to do, and we have already put in place systems to ensure crime is reported at the first point of contact, either through an officer at the scene, the force control room or the police service centre (101 calls).

"We continue to look at the most appropriate timing and method of contact we have with victims, depending on both the type of crime they have suffered and their vulnerability, our use of language line to engage with victims for whom English is not their first language, and our collection of diversity data from victims of crime."

The report also says the constabulary had failed to record reports of sexual offences against children and adults. Nearly 9 per cent of reported sex offences were not recorded.

According to the report: "Those failings are significant given the very serious nature of sexual offences and the harm that they cause to their victims.

"We found that the constabulary had failed to record reports of sexual offences against both adults and children. These include offences of inciting children to engage in sexual activity."

An NSPCC spokesman for the East of England told the News: "It is concerning that some child sex offences are going unrecorded by Cambridgeshire Police, which could mean vulnerable young victims are being denied the vital support they are entitled to.

"However, overall improvement in recording crimes and supporting vulnerable victims is a positive step that should be built upon.

"Cambridgeshire Police must now act to implement the recommendations of the HMIC's report without delay and ensure victims are at the heart of their determined work to keep us safe."

ACC Vajzovic said: "We record in excess of 58,060 crimes every year in Cambridgeshire and HMIC has said today that more than 88 per cent of those are recorded appropriately and properly.

"While it is of concern that some crimes are being recorded differently and this needs to be addressed, my focus remains firmly on protecting and safeguarding our communities.

"HMIC has recognised Cambridgeshire Constabulary as good for our accuracy in recording crime – which reassures me that we are delivering a good service to our most vulnerable victims.

"They have also recognised us as outstanding for our culture and leadership in crime recording – highlighting our strong governance and the standards and expectations we set for our staff and officers to get it right.

"While there were no specific recommendations made by HMIC, we continue to strive to provide the best service for the people of Cambridgeshire, we take heed of their areas of improvement and are reassured that they can see we are making good progress in the right direction."

Hunt is on for heroes

THE Cambridge Food & Drink Awards are back for 2017 – and open for business!

We're asking you, our readers, to nominate your favourites in 10 categories, from pub to restaurant, street food to farm shop, producer to chef.

Held in association with The Cambridge Roar – the festival of charity events which raises funds for East Anglian Air Ambulance, Cambridge United Community Trust and city hospice Arthur Rank – the awards are open to all food and drink companies within Cambridge News & Media's circulation area – the city and its surrounding towns and villages.

And you have plenty of time to nominate your favourites: visit cambridge-news.co.uk/whats-on/food-drink-news/cambridge-food-drink-awards-2017-13078179 before midnight on July 6; nominating takes a matter of minutes.

Designed to give credit where the people of Cambridge consider it due, the categories are:

- Producer of the Year
- Farm Shop/Deli of the Year
- Pub/Bar of the Year
- Tearoom/Coffee Shop of the Year
- Street Food/Pop-up of the Year
- Takeaway of the Year
- Best Newcomer
- Restaurant of the Year
- Chef of the Year
- Food and Drink Hero

Last year saw a record number of nominations – almost 500! – proof, if it were needed, that our corner of the country is a real foodie hot spot.

The three businesses or individuals with the highest number of nominations in each category will make the shortlist.

The winners will then be selected by our panel of independent expert judges, and announced at an elegant afternoon tea party at Quy Mill Hotel & Spa on August 3.

With the area's food and drink offering expanding – and becoming more delicious – by the day, there is plenty to shout about. So go on – get those nominations in.

For more information about the awards visit cambridge-news.co.uk.

GRENELL TOWER

'We have plans in place to aid victims in case of a disaster'

RACHAEL McMENEMY

@Rach_Mc94CN

RECENT events in the aftermath of the Grenfell Tower inferno have left people wondering what would happen if such a disaster occurred in their area.

Haverhill Town Council has offered reassurances that should such an event happen in the town plans are in place to offer help to victims.

Contingency plans, formed by Suffolk County Council's Joint Emergency Planning Committee, provide a guide on how Haverhill would be transformed into a relief centre.

During any event the arts centre will become a hub.

Haverhill Town clerk Colin Poole said: "Haverhill does have contingency plans, drawn up by the County's Joint Emergency Planning Unit and we are a part of those plans.

"The arts centre is a designated relief centre, which was used to put people up after a fire in Haverhill in July, 2014. We have had meetings with the Suffolk Resilience team to establish our role and town council staff have been on training courses

HELPING HAND: People in Haverhill donated food, blankets and clothes to the appeal to ensure we know our role.

"There is a working party of councillors but that is there primarily to look at coping with widespread weather-related disruption, when we are likely to have to turn to our own resources because the emergency services would be over-stretched regionally or nationally."

Last week hundreds of people flocked to the arts centre to provide donations to the victims of the Grenfell Tower blaze.

People across Haverhill felt compelled to help and filled three vans worth of food, blankets, clothes, toys, toiletries and more to be donated to the victims after a call to action from town councillor Tony Brown.

At the time Cllr Brown said: "It's been absolutely fantastic, once again Haverhill steps up to the plate."

Mr Poole added: "The terrible string of recent tragic events are very worrying, but they were not 'widespread', in that the emergency services and the emergency planning officers can focus on that sort of emergency and draft in additional support.

"The planning of emergency shelters, medical interventions etc has been done and contingencies put in place. Because Haverhill has a large industrial chemical site, IFF, Haverhill has additional resilience plans in the event of a major accident too."

Mr Poole added: "Of course there is no room for complacency and each of these recent events gives a new scenario to test our plans against. We are reviewing safety and security for the big events this year, for example."

Exploring the bustling Big Apple is a walk in the park for JANE HAASE and family

If, like me, you are obsessed with getting in your recommended 10,000 steps a day, a trip to New York will have you chomping at the Fitbit. It is the perfect city for walking around.

We averaged about 25,000 steps a day on our family holiday to the Big Apple earlier this month, as we took in famous sights like the Empire State Building, the Statue of Liberty, Brooklyn Bridge and Central Park. But as you are pounding the pavement, don't forget to look up and admire those towering structures scraping the sky.

My husband and I had visited New York pre-children, more than 20 years ago, but this was a first for James, 13 and Nina, 11. Would they be as blown away as we were when we landed in the fabulously frenetic city?

We spent the first part of our stay in Downtown Manhattan, the famed financial district, and our hotel was just a stone's throw from where the Twin Towers once stood. Poignantly they feature on our holiday snaps from that earlier visit, but following the terror attacks of 9/11, two huge water features now fill that void, serving as a memorial.

It's quite peaceful to stand quietly, listening to the steady cascade of water as you read the names of those who died engraved on the walls of the reflecting pools.

In recent years, a large part of the downtown area has been developed with a Westfield shopping centre and a swish upmarket retail complex Brookfield Place, which boasts high-end designer shops such as Gucci, Burberry and Saks Fifth Avenue. There are also fancy offices and restaurants, and it's a great spot for eating al fresco.

We did just that on our first day, munching on lobster rolls and sipping a glass of wine while watching the sun glinting on the Hudson River as boats chugged up and down.

We were staying at the Conrad New York, part of the Hilton group, in the heart of Lower Manhattan in Battery Park City.

It has a jaw-dropping lobby area with a 100x80 foot contemporary artwork made up of royal blue and vibrant purple swirls snaking up one side of the huge atrium. It all feels very cool and modern, and it boasts a fabulous rooftop bar offering spectacular views over the nearby Hudson River which made it the perfect place for an early evening drink. On the ground floor is Statue of Liberty without a journey to Liberty island itself.

Another fantastic photo opportunity is to walk the Brooklyn Bridge. It takes about 20-25 minutes to make the journey on the pedestrian walkway across the iconic landmark and so we climbed on board The Ride NYC Downtown Experience (it also has a midtown one), a big coach with theatre-style seating and floor-to-ceiling windows so you can look out onto the streets as you hear their history.

It's an interactive tour and at intervals we donned virtual reality headsets where we saw the amazing views from the One World Observatory, or felt as though we were witnessing the Wall Street Crash of 1929 first-hand. There was even some live performance thrown in with a moving tribute to 9/11 from an actor on the street dressed as a city worker.

After our tour we boarded the free ferry that commuters take to Staten Island and back so we could get as close as we could to the views of Manhattan from Brooklyn Bridge Park are fantastic. Again this area has been developed with restaurants and apartments and plenty of places to chill out and just soak up those views.

From the relative peace and quiet of downtown we were greeted by a cacophony of beeping car horns as we arrived in midtown for the second part of our stay - but this is, after all, the buzz you expect from the city which famously never sleeps.

Our base was the Roger Smith Hotel, smack bang in the centre of midtown, based on Lexington Avenue and within walking distance of must-see sights such as Times Square, the Chrysler Building, Tiffany's and Bloomingdale's.

The Roger Smith Hotel, midtown

This family-owned hotel has been around for 80 years and it really does feel like a home from home with individually designed rooms, comfy sofas and quirky furniture.

Our suite was large and comfortable with a TV, fridge, microwave and espresso machine. Our huge bathroom had funky Picasso-like style design on the walls and the hotel likes to showcase public art in its lobby and bar. It also has a small roof top bar, a great spot for a drink on a hot New York night. There is no restaurant but the hotel will order take out for you. Not that you need to with a multitude of restaurants and cuisines on your doorstep.

New York isn't cheap with the pound weak against the dollar, but you can pick up breakfast from a deli for a few dollars and Nina, who can be a fussy eater abroad, loved digging into authentic NY bagels, pizza, burgers and hanger steaks.

We were in New York for five and a half days and wanted to make the most of them, without wasting time in queues.

New York CityPASSes are a great option and include tickets to all the main tourist spots so you don't have to buy the tickets when you get to busy attractions like the Empire State Building, although there is still an entrance queue.

Our CityPASSes included a return bonus visit the same day after 10pm to see the iconic landmark illuminated at night, but I preferred the wonderful views from the less crowded Top of the Rock observation deck at the Rockefeller Center. I even saw someone being proposed to – and she did say yes.

Our CityPASSes also offered a river cruise and we went for the thrill ride option. Bouncing along the Hudson River towards the Statue of Liberty, at speeds of up to 45mph to a thumping pop soundtrack on the Beast speedboat, with spray on our faces was a real highlight.

We packed a lot in strolling the sidewalks of this fantastic city and New York certainly stepped up to the mark as a top family destination.

Snake's sax appeal

TRIBUTE: Snake Davis will recreate the music
he made with the stars
in his Classic Sax Solos show

Picture: Steve Clark

THE National Theatre will be sharing a new broadcast at Haverhill Arts Centre tonight with the showing of Salomé.

It's the story of a girl whose mysterious dance changes the course of the world and places her at the centre of a revolution. If your name is John the Baptist it might be best to skip this one.

The Indians, who are in fact an Irish band (obviously) make a return visit tomorrow complete with headdresses and moccasins.

That's as far as the native American connection goes, their set is a bounty of old favourites and show tunes.

To tie in with the Armed Forces Day on Saturday, the arts centre has a performance of The Vera Lynn Story, which showcases one of Britain's national treasures, following her rise to stardom from a pre-war radio performer to the Armed Forces' sweetheart.

Recreating a time when music and melodies kept loved ones close and gave a nation hope, be swept up and travel back in time on Saturday at 5pm.

Snake Davis has worked with some of the biggest names in pop music for many a year and his little black book is packed with such A listers as Beyonce, Tina Turner, Take

That, George Michael and Cher.

Now, with his band, Snake will recreate the music he made with the stars in his Classic Sax Solos show.

Listen to such favourites as Baker Street, Careless Whisper and A Million Love Songs and find out, if you don't know already, why the sax is so popular.

In 1599 Will Kemp, a comic actor in Shakespeare's company, decided, for reasons best known to himself, to dance through God's Own Country (otherwise known as East Anglia) in an epic caper from London to Norwich.

Ancestral Voices recreates Kemp's jig through music of the period and readings from Kemp's journal on Thursday, June 29, at 7pm.

There is a screening of Harry Potter and the Philosopher's Stone on Sunday, June 25.

Get yourself an apparition licence and transport yourself to the arts centre to celebrate 20 years since the adventures of Harry were first published.

Dress up if you fancy. Professor Snapes will be particularly welcome, Professor Umbridges not so much.

If adolescent wizardry is not your cup of magic potion then a filmic alternative this week is Britain on Film: Rural Life which is a collection of newsreels and short documentary films, made between 1903 and 1981.

It touches on the technological, industrial and cultural changes that affected rural life and relives such scenes as the blacksmith preparing shoes for the horses, the homemade entertainments of the children at the county fair and the village hall dance.

There are some great events coming up: The Roy Orbison and Buddy Holly Show (July 6), Edinburgh Fringe Previews from Shappi Khorsandi with Kelly Convey (July 7) and Mark Steel with Andrew Ryan (July 14) and Barb Jungr singing Bob Dylan (Saturday July 15).

BMW stretches its GT from a five to a six

YOU'VE heard of stretched limos – now get ready to welcome the stretched Grand Turismo.

In fact, the latest GT from BMW has only been stretched by 87mm compared with its predecessor – even so, the German maker feels that its latest saloon-cum-coupe-cum-estate cross-over reflects such a major step forward it has given it a new name.

So, say good-bye to the 5 Series Gran Turismo and get ready to welcome the 6 Series Gran Turismo which will be given its world premiere at the Frankfurt motor show in September and go into production soon after.

The re-branding may be little more than a marketing ploy, but according to BMW it is because the new model takes the characteristics of the 5 Series GT to another level.

Whether owners of the outgoing model will agree is another matter, however, given that their motors have become obsolete.

The new 6 Series Gran Turismo clearly takes its cues from its predecessor, but its design offers a more athletic, sportier stance.

Although it is 87mm longer and the same width, the car's height has been reduced by 21mm, while the rear end has been lowered by 64mm.

The changes have contributed to a more low-slung silhouette without compromising on interior space or practicality, says BMW, with more headroom and what it calls "ample" legroom.

Thanks to the increased length the new model offers 110 litres more boot space with a total of 610 litres with the rear seats in place and 1,800 litres when the backrests are folded down – up 100 litres. The electrically operated tailgate sits above a sill which has been lowered by more than five centimetres and is now flush with the floor for improved loading capability.

Initially the new Gran Turismo will be offered with a choice of three engines – two and three litre petrol and a three litre, six-cylinder diesel – while the BMW xDrive all-wheel-drive system will be available in two of the three variants in the model line-up. All versions will come with an eight-speed Steptronic transmission with paddles as standard.

Prices will start from £46,810, rising to £52,705 when the new model goes on sale in the UK later this year.

SPORTIER: The new GT is 87mm longer and 21mm lower

DEAL: Suzuki Swift

Offer on for Suzuki's new Swift model

SUZUKI'S all-new Swift model, which has just gone on sale, will be available with summer offers including a £500 deposit allowance with 2.9 per cent APR finance on SZ-T and SZ5 two wheel drive models.

Taking an SZ-T with 1.0 Boosterjet engine as an example, with the £500 deposit allowance on offer, no further deposit is required and payments are then spread over 48 months at £185 per month with an APR of 2.9 per cent.

Monthly payments can be lowered to £159 per month for the SZ-T if a deposit of £1,163 is made.

And as with any PCP agreement, an optional final payment is required to keep the car which for this model is £4,645.

ROAD TEST

Nissan Pulsar

CAPABLE: Nissan Pulsar
DIG-T 190 Tekna

THE no nonsense, few frills family hatchback has taken something of a back seat in recent times as growing numbers of buyers have latched onto the SUV scene.

But competition in this core area of the car market remains hot nonetheless – and while Nissan has successfully thrown substantial resource behind crossovers like the Qashqai and Juke, it hasn't abandoned its more conservative customers.

One way of stealing a march on rivals like the Ford Focus, Volkswagen Golf and Kia ce'ed is by offering better interior space, something the Japanese brand achieves with room to spare in the Pulsar.

This model may not have the edge on dynamics, or even looks, but it blasts the opposition into orbit when it comes to room in the cabin.

Significantly, there's a huge amount of rear legroom plus comfortable centre rear seating position while stowage comprises a cupholder in all four door bins, a central container, glovebox and oddments container in front of the gearstick.

Again with families in mind the boot is deep and wide enough to shift four full-size cases – and that's before you fold the rear seats down.

Beneath the bonnet is an all-turbocharged engine range including a 1.2-litre DIG-T petrol unit with an output of 115ps, a 1.5-litre dCi diesel generating 110ps and the tested 190ps 1.6-litre turbocharged petrol engine.

Petrol engined models kick off the range at £13,155 for a Visia Limited Edition 1.2-litre while diesels start at £16,315, though for high mileage drivers and fleet operators there's the attraction of 78.5mpg economy.

You can chop that fuel figure in half for the tested six-speed manual variant, my own average return well down at 35.3mpg.

It is a spirited car to drive though, as the performance figures (0-62mph in 7.7 seconds, top speed 135mph) bear out and while the driving experience isn't cutting edge it's certainly comfortable and well balanced.

There are plenty of safety and tech features as standard on the Tekna trim.

It all adds up to a genuine family car – one capable of luring both everyday motorists and company car drivers.

Weight penalties hamper Paffett's chance of progress

GARY Paffett picked up two top-10 finishes at the Hungaroring to finish the latest weekend of DTM action joint-fifth in the drivers' standings.

The Haverhill driver found the early going tough in his Mercedes-AMG C63 as they were carrying more weight than rivals Audi and BMW because of their successes earlier in the season.

Paffett did well to secure ninth in qualifying, and despite a lack of race pace and losing out on the timing of a safety car, he was able to move up a position at the chequered flag. He was later promoted to seventh after Audi's Jamie Green was excluded.

"I'm pretty happy with the result," said Paffett afterwards. "It was an up-and-down race. My start was good, and I felt quite comfortable in the field."

"The car was good during the race. I didn't have the pace of the Audis, but otherwise, I was happy with the car during the race."

Paffett started race two in 11th place, and a strong start helped him gain a position.

Coming out in 13th after his pit stop, Paffett moved up to 10th before a tense battle with Mike Rockenfeller.

The two made contact on lap 32 – Rockenfeller was deemed to be at fault by the race stewards – but Paffett held his nerve to take the place from his German rival. He gained another position when Marco Wittmann retired to finish ninth.

Paffett said: "It was a tough race. I was always stuck in traffic. I didn't lose too many positions at the start, and then I was following a train of cars around."

"Ninth place means another couple of points. It wasn't what we wanted really, but we couldn't do more. It's simply too difficult to overtake here."

Audi driver Rene Rast leads the championship with 70 points. Paffett is tied for fifth with Rockenfeller on 54. The series resumes at the Norisring on June 30.

Skipper blasts winning runs off the last ball as Haverhill sink Woolpit in Twenty20 Cup HAVERHILL secured a three-wicket victory over Woolpit in the Suffolk Twenty20 Cup Group C to leave them in a good position to qualify for the knockout stage.

Woolpit won the toss and elected to bat with opener Alex Jackson making an innings best of 46.

Despite the fast start, Haverhill bowlers Callum Brunning and Chris Palmer both took three wickets to put the brakes on Woolpit as they ended their innings on 134 for 9.

Dan Pass made 21 but a strong early performance from the Woolpit bowlers looked like putting the game out of reach.

But a partnership of 68 between skipper Dave Humphrey and Tom Baker took the game to the final over with Haverhill needing seven runs.

The captain hit four off the first ball before a few singles from Naveen Shah levelled the scores with one ball remaining.

Humphrey lashed that to the boundary to secure the victory.

Meanwhile, in the Marshall Hatchick Two Counties Championship, Division One, Haverhill lost by five wickets to Halstead.

Haverhill skipper Adam Dellar took a gamble and decided to bat first on the difficult pitch, a challenge the batsmen did not adapt to and they were all out for 115.

Four boundaries in the first over got Halstead off to a dream start and they reached the total with five wickets remaining.

In Division Three, Haverhill II slipped to a narrow 18-run defeat against Halstead.

Halstead won the toss and decided to bat first with Ian Pot's 61 and Justin Rose's 63 not out the main contribution to their 193 for 4.

Haverhill struggled to deal with the Halstead bowling with only Lee Phillip's 41 contributing anything of note. They were bowled out in the last over.

In Division Nine, Norton II beat Haverhill III by eight wickets.

Ryan's mighty effort seals it

RYAN Fowler stormed to a well-deserved victory in the R Brown Cup, the men's Major at the Haverhill club.

Played over 36 holes, Fowler shot 67 and 72 to finish three clear of Terry Lyons (67, 75 for 142) and Christopher Iron (74, 69 for 143).

The ladies' section played their Ping competition, Judy Farren and Sally Price coming out top on countback after they and Mary Sail and Linda Alexander both scored 40 points.

Club members had an early start for one of the social committee's events – Midsummer Madness – which had a shotgun start at 5.30am. The mixed teams of four stableford was won by John Vale, Tony Archer, Matt Farlie and Neil Farlie. Kirsty Iron, Chris Iron, James Iron and Paul Chapman were the runners-up.
